City Guard 'Moves Out'

Greencastle Guardsmen will be moving out during next week to join other guardsmen as the state's 38th Infantry (Cyclone) Division commences its two weeks of annual training at Camp Grayling, Mich.

This year 14,000 Guardsmen will train at the same time, perfecting combat skills with the objective of improving the readiness portion of the division. About 8,000 Hoosier Guardsmen will participate. About 3,000 Guardsmen from Michigan and a like number from Ohio will be involved.

Camp Grayling, located in the northern region of Michigan's lower peninsula, affords an excellent area for training all elements of the 38th Infantry Division.

Among military and civilian dignitaries who plan to observe field training exercises are Lieutenant General Patrick Cassidy, Commanding General of the 5th U.S. Army, and Governors Otis R. Bowen of Indiana and John J. Gilligan of Ohio.

The Division is commanded by MG Robert G. Moorhead of Indianapolis.

For the most part, military convoys will travel by interstate highways during daylight hours; use of other major routes feeding into or supplementing the interstate system is planned. The convoys will be traveling at approximately 45 MPH with ample interval between convoys.

Readers

Hold

Party

Robe-Ann Park's shelter #2 was brimming with happy children yesterday as the Greencastle-Putnam County Library's Summer Reading Program came to a close with a party for the youthful scholars.

Reading certificates designed by Mrs. Anne Mancini, Bookmobile librarian, were given to those children who read six books or more.

Some of the young readers did not stop at six, however. Some read as many as 60 and more.

Cookies, some made by parents of the children, were distributed and local businessmen contributed favors which were given away during the party.

Mark York, Greencastle, entertained with magic tricks and a tour of the bookmobile was undertaken.

On hand to help supervise the affair were Mrs. William Wood, Mrs. Milton Berry, Mrs. David Olson and Mrs. John Wilson, all of Greencastle.

Some 110 children were enrolled in this year's program, about equal to years' past.

Fair

Services

July 29

Churchgoers in Putnam County have been invited to participate in a vesper worship service which will be held in the outdoor arena at the fairgrounds at 8 p.m. Sunday evening, July 29.

These religious services have been conducted on opening Sunday of the fair for a number of years and have been sponsored by the Putnam County Council of Churches.

Plans for the evenings' worship service will be completed early next week and announcement of guest speaker and special music will be made at that time.

"This service has always been one of the highlights of our fair and has been largely attended by people of many county churches. We are inviting those who normally hold Sunday evening services to dismiss for this evening and come to this service at the fair," said Tom Hendricks Fair Board president.

Camp Worthwhile: Baker Reports

"The things I learned in Police Career camp will help me in any endeavor I may take," young Rex Baker told Greencastle Kiwanians yesterday.

Real Estate Sales Dip

Real estate sales in the Greencastle area for the second quarter of 1973 edged down slightly from the high first quarter level and were sharply off the second quarter activity for 1972.

According to data compiled by the Greencastle Federal Savings and Loan Association there were, in the first half of 1973, 57 sales for $772,415.00 compared to 76 sales for $1,165,363.00 in the first six months of 1972.

Mortgage loans reflected the same slowing trend. During the first six months of 1973, 70 mortgages with a value of $956,874.00 were completed, down substantially from the 102 mortgages and $1,582,394.00 volume in the comparable 1972 period.

In the first half of 1973 there were 10 residential building permits issued for a value of $305,500.00, down from the 19 permits and $399,800.00 value for the first six months of 1972.

Conversely, building permits for commercial, industrial and residential additions demonstrated a sharp upsurge, 36 having been issued for $6,963,650.00, up from the 28 permits and $792,750.00 for the comparable 1972 period.

According to Ernest H. Collins, Chairman of Greencastle Federal Savings and Loan Association, the persistent rise in interest rates supports earlier forecasts of a reduction in construction on the national level. However,

Collins pointed out that the decline is from a record high level and, in spite of many conflicting forces, 1973 still should be an excellent year for the housing industry.

YR's Hear Office Seekers In City Meet

Meeting in Greencastle Tuesday night, Seventh District Young Republicans (YR's) heard from four candidates running for the top offices in the state Young Republican Federation, Ron Ellis, Greencastle, chairman of the district YR's said.

Ellis noted that Chuck Quinn, Auburn, presently national committeeman running for state chairman; Linda Gohee, national committeewoman seeking re-election; John Holcomb, state treasurer looking to the national committeeman spot and Floyd Parker, past District 10 chairman aiming for the state treasurer position were at the regular meeting explaining their platforms.

"They told us how they would improve the federation and told us their qualifications," Ellis stated.

Presently the Seventh District YR's, which is the second largest voting block in the Hoosier federation, is uncommitted on all of the candidates except one, the chairman remarked.

"We are backing Linda Gohee," he said.

Also at the meeting were Bob Poor, seventh district chairman and Bob Rouse, staff assistant to Congressman John Myers.

During the session, the YR's went over old and new business. "We are considering giving away Pacer and/or Purdue University Season Football tickets as a fund raiser."

SLATED FRIDAY

'World's End' Film At Gobin

This week's feature in the Gobin Church Friday evening film series will be a science fiction film about the threatened end of the world.

The choice was made by the junior high school group sponsoring the films in response to the preferences shown in a poll of the audiences' tastes earlier in the summer. The short film accompanying the feature is about the exploration of America.

The series of movies, begun in May, will run through the end of July. The shows begin Fridays at 7 p.m., with the doors of the CAM building on Spring Street opening at 6:40 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend; the series is meant to be a public entertainment service. Those who donate to the film fund receive free popcorn.

Along with the rides, the shows and livestock viewing, every fair goer has to think of his stomach too—just as these hungry fair attenders did at the Tri-County Fair last night.

The aroma of frying food drew large crowds as the food tent bulged with people.

After Day 1 Of Phase 4 Local Hog Market Up With National Trend

Hog prices at the Greencastle Livestock Center yesterday reflected the lifting of the price freeze on pork which was included in President Nixon's Phase 4, as the market opened yesterday $3.75 higher.

While yesterday's increase was one of the highest for any one day at the center for quite a time, the market Wednesday was $1.25 higher than Tuesday's market. However, sources at the Livestock Center were reluctant to speculate any additional soaring of the prices.

Despite the fact that the local center does not expect any further large jumps in the market, area grocery store managers did generally agree that all prices would show an immediate increase as Phase 4 goes into effect. Most of the managers agreed that the increase would be spontaneous and quite substantial.

A comparison of Wednesday's prices and Thursday's prices at the Livestock Center shows how Phase 4 did immediately affect the local market.

Wednesday's Market:
180-200 $43.25-43.75
200-230 $43.75-44.25
230-250 $43.25-43.75
250-300 $41.25-43.25
Sows $37-38
Boars $31-33

Thursday's Market:
180-200 $46.50-47.50
200-230 $47.75-48.00
230-250 $47.00-47.75
250-300 $45.00-47.00
Sows $38-39
Boars $32

The prices of hogs at the huge Chicago-Joliet marketing center jumped six dollars per hundredweight as a result of Phase 4, according to an Associated Press report. Yet sources say that farmers are staying away, waiting for the price to go up even higher.

While the freeze remains on beef products, William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation said Wednesday that he feels there could be a shortage ahead, and that controls are not the way to lower food prices. He further argued that the agricultural industry must be allowed to operate on the principle of supply and demand.

Relating primarily to beef production, Kuhfuss stated that the current freeze has caused farmers to cut back production, because they could not operate at a profit. "Such cutbacks inevitably mean higher prices, because the supply is not equal to the demand," the Farm Bureau head stated.

Kuhfuss said that proposals earlier in the year in Congress to roll back food prices to their January 1973 levels caused farmers to lose confidence in their ability to make a profit. When the freeze was imposed, he said the producers found themselves losing money.

Dear Abby

The signals she sends don't say 'stay away'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22, better than average looking, and I'm told I have a good personality. Altho I don't pretend to be "Miss Super Virgin," I don't care to jump into bed with a guy on the first date.

How does a girl tactfully let a guy know this when he doesn't exactly come right out and ask her to go to bed with him, but he just keeps pushing himself on her?

I must be going about it in the wrong way because even tho my date and I really have a good time, when it comes to the moment of truth he gets disgusted with me.

This happens on every date I've had lately and I'm beginning to feel like a failure when a guy rushes me home, says, "I'll see you around," and I never hear from him again.

BIG PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Your big problem is the way you conduct yourself during those moments that lead up to the moment of truth. Your actions undoubtedly telegraph the message that you would be a willing partner. Put the brakes on during the preliminaries, and you won't find yourself faced with "the moment of truth" so soon. And by the way, a guy who disappears permanently because a girl refuses to jump into bed with him on the first date is no bargain.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old man who has been a widower for two years. I am in good health, college educated, and I'm considered presentable. I had a wonderful 38-year marriage, but I dislike living alone and I would like to marry.

The problem: I've been out with numerous ladies who seem pleasant and decent and would make fine companions, but they do nothing for me—physically.

I am not a wolf, but I'd like a woman about whom I can really become excited. One I can't wait to see again. I don't mean young girls, either. I mean a woman in her fifties.

Can this happen to a man my age? Or should I settle for a nice woman who qualifies in every other way and put aside these dreams of romance?

I don't want to be crude, but I would like to know if it's possible for a man past 60 to fall in love—and physically do something about it.

READY AND WILLING

DEAR READY AND WILLING: If you are in good health, you are also "able." All you need is the right woman. Keep looking.

DEAR ABBY: May I commend you for your understanding advice to "Heartsick Mother" whose beautiful 22-year-old daughter had an all-consuming interest in another girl.

You told the mother: "Let your daughter know you love her and accept her as she is. There is no more convincing proof of your love."

I hope she heeds your advice. My only son turned out to be a homosexual. I was heartbroken, but never let him know it.

Altho I couldn't understand it, I accepted it. Today he has adjusted to it, has an excellent position in a distant state, and the respect of those he works for. And yes, he has a "special" friend.

Had I rejected him, he might have had many more problems. Before going to his present location, he wrote me a letter, thanking me for accepting him as he is. Neither one of us ever mentioned it again.

Thank you, Abby, for understanding.

Bidding Quiz

Partner bids One Spade, both sides vulnerable, and you have a part-score of 40. What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠83 ♥Q752 ♦A64 ♣KQ8
2. ♠Q752 ♥AKJ3 ♦Q76 ♣J4
3. ♠Q96 ♥KQ4 ♦AJ9 ♣AJ87
4. ♠74 ♥J73 ♦Q973 ♣J952
5. ♠K8653 ♥AQJ96 ♦J8 ♣10

1. One notrump. Without the part-score two hearts would be perfectly normal, but with it the proper response is one notrump. This is because partner may pass two hearts with indifferent trump support—since a game contract has been reached and the hearts here are simply not substantial enough to risk a pass. There is no chance of partner's passing one notrump, since such a response is forcing with a part-score of 40.

2. Two spades. Ordinarily, you'd respond three spades, but since a jump to three with a part-score of 40 would constitute a slam try, you bid only two. Two hearts is of course out of the question with only a four-card suit.

Change the club jack to the king and you'd have a proper three-spade bid. Such a jump would indicate interest in a slam, but would not be forcing.

3. Three notrump. This is also not forcing but is highly invitational to a slam. The indicated point count is 17 or 18. Three notrump guarantees strength in the unbid suits and balanced distribution.

4. One notrump. Without a part-score you'd pass because game would be too remote to justify keeping the bidding alive. But with a 40 part-score the requirements for a response are lower than the usual 6-point minimum expected for a notrump response. Since you don't have to climb as high as usual to reach a game, you lower your sights accordingly.

5. Three spades. Here you make a slam try based on the attractive distribution. True, there are only 11 high-card points, but a slam is within reach even opposite a minimum opening bid. Thus, partner needs little more than the ace of spades, king of hearts and ace of diamonds to be a favorite for twelve tricks.

It would be unwise to respond two hearts for the reasons previously given, or to respond three hearts which would be a jump-shift and 100 per cent forcing. You have values that entitle you to suggest a slam but not the values to insist upon one.

Kennedy Claims He Won't Be "Lame Duck" In Next 2 Years

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Kennedy, who has announced his retirement as National Basketball Association commissioner when his contract expires on June 1, 1975, says he has no intention of being a "lame-duck" czar in the next two years.

"I won't be a lame-duck, nor will I be a dead duck," the affable Kennedy said at a news conference Wednesday in disclosing his future plans. "I hope to be a live goose."

Kennedy, commissioner since Sept. 1, 1963, will help choose his successor in addition to tending to his duties as commissioner for the next two years. He and Ned Irish, president of the New York Knicks and a founder of the league since its inception in 1946 as the Basketball Association of America, have been named by the league's owners as members of the screening committee to find a successor to the outgoing commissioner.

Kennedy, who will be 62 when he retires, emphasized there was no pressure on him to relinquish his position, despite two published reports in the past two months that he would be fired.

"I owe it to my family (his wife, three children and two grandchildren) to devote more time to them, to do more traveling, which I enjoy, and to do more work for the public service organizations of which I am a member," he said.

However, when he relinquishes his post as commissioner, the devoted Kennedy will not completely sever his ties with the NBA. He will be a consultant for the league, at a salary in excess of $500,000 for 10 years.

Irish also said that the league's Board of Governors, at its meeting in Beverly Hills, Calif., late last month, had offered Kennedy an extension of his present five-year contract, but he rejected it.

"By then (1975), I will have finished 12 years, and I feel that the job for which I was originally engaged will have been substantially completed," explained Kennedy. However, if a replacement is not found by the time Kennedy is prepared to retire, he has agreed to continue in the job until a successor is elected, by a vote of 13 of the 17 members of the Board of Governors.

During Kennedy's reign, the NBA has made tremendous progress, increasing from nine to 17 teams, raising its attendance from 1.9 million in 1962-63, the year before he became commissioner, to better than six million last season, and obtaining a network television package that will net $9 million next season for 38 regular-season games plus playoffs.

Three LA Pitchers Named To All-Stars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson, has shown his respect for the Los Angeles pitching staff in making his selections for a pitching staff for the National League All-Star team.

Starters Claude Osteen, 11-6, and Don Sutton, 12-5, and reliever Jim Brewer were among the eight pitchers Anderson selected for the National League All-Star team that will face the American League next Tuesday night in Kansas City.

Anderson's other All-Star pitchers will be Jack Billingham of the Reds, Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, Wayne Twitchell of Philadelphia, Rick Wise of St. Louis and Dave Giusti of Pittsburgh.

Summer League Sports: Fun Or Frustration?

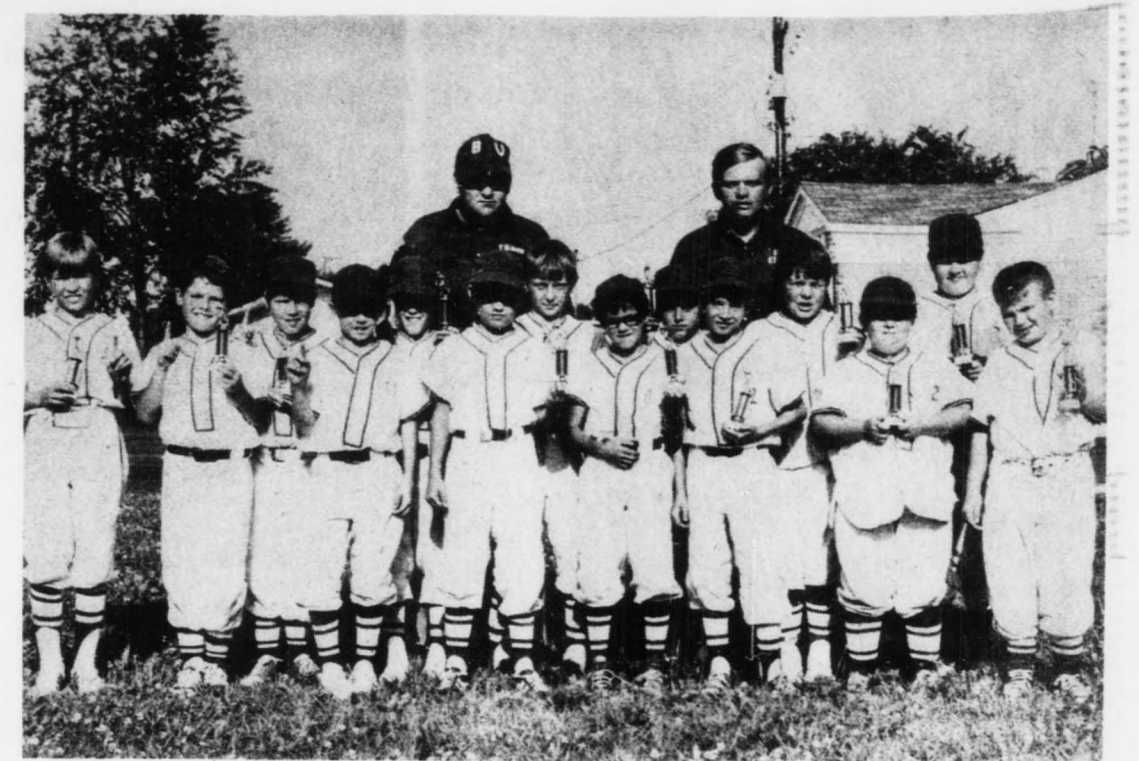

If your child is involved in summer league baseball—or any other kind of competitive activity—take some precautions to insure he has a good experience.

"Many organized activities are excellent and provide children with opportunities to develop skills and friendships," says Dr. Dama C. Wilms, Extension human development specialist at Purdue University.

However, she quickly adds, some activities may force your child into rigorous practice periods that take more time than he's ready to commit. Or he may continually be left on the bench come in last or perform poorly self-defeating experiences which can leave him feeling insecure, hesitant, and fearful.

Dr. Wilms says parents should be particularly careful about involving very young children in competition that can take the pleasure out of learning new skills.

To help you safeguard your child, the specialist suggests you check out the program before you enroll your child. What kind of things should

Sport Of Tennis Booming In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The current tennis boom has reached such proportions that devotees don't just have to queue up for courts—now they're waiting in line to buy rackets, balls and clothes.

Another manufacturing spokesman figured the tennis market at $300 million and said it was far outstripping golf in rate of growth although still not up to the fairway sport in overall sales.

In the last five years tennis has become the fashionable "in" sport, triggering not only heavy demands for playing equipment and clothing but setting off an explosion of indoor and outdoor clubs.

These facilities range from balloon-type structures which cover two courts to swank suburban and mid-town clubs offering fashionable lounges, swimming pools and sauna baths.

Membership in some of these clubs costs from $2,000 to $5,000 a year. At some semi-private courts, players pay $10 an hour for a court and $35 an hour for professional lessons.

Butz Says Phase Four Clears Way For All-Out Production In 1974

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said today that removal of the price freeze, except for beef, clears the way for all-out crop production in 1974 so that supplies of grain and soybeans can be rebuilt.

"We're going for all out production," Butz told a news conference. "I think we will need all we can produce in 1974."

Butz said there would be no land idling or acreage set-aside requirements for 1974 production of wheat, feed grains, soybeans and cotton.

Farmers will be encouraged and helped to grow larger crops next year "to meet the needs of a growing demand at home and to re-establish our credibility as a reliable supplier of farm products in the world market," Butz said.

"This credibility has been ruptured some in recent months by virtue of our export controls on soybeans," he said.

Despite estimates of a record U.S. wheat crop this year and projections showing that record harvests of corn and soybeans are possible next fall, Butz said reserves of those commodities currently are too low for comfort.

Looking ahead to 1974, Butz said that regardless of how much farmers might produce he does not foresee any serious surplus problems developing.

Butz said the removal of the price freeze and Phase 4 regulations are expected to bring further increases in prices of some food items, including pork and poultry.

When the freeze was initiated, the Agriculture Department said retail food prices would average about 12 per cent higher for 1973 than in 1972.

Butz, under questioning, refused to estimate what the increase for 1973 might be now since the freeze has been abandoned.

"I hesitate to give a precise figure because our track record in recent months hasn't been too good here," Butz said. He added, however, that he said most of the 1973 food price rise has already occurred.

Asked about rumors that he was dissatisfied and might resign, Butz replied: "Oh, no."

EVERYONE LIKES TO JOKE about pigs and hogs, but few people realize how important they are to the agricultural economy of the United States. Hogs are our nation's number two livestock crop. By the way, it looks as though these little pigs are "making hogs of themselves!"

Higher Protein Costs Forcing Farmers To Re-examine Makeup

Indiana swine producers are reexamining the makeup of the rations for their animals principally because of higher protein costs.

At what levels can protein be fed and still keep overall costs in line while maintaining satisfactory performance?

Purdue University extension specialists David H. Bache, an agricultural economist, and James R. Foster, an animal scientist, have come up with some possible answers.

For gestating sows a 12 per cent protein level should be in the ration when they are receiving four to five pounds of feed daily. If good quality legume pasture is available the feeding level can be reduced to three pounds per day.

For pigs weighing from 40 to 75 pounds, the most economical ration under current corn and supplement prices, probably is 15 per cent protein.

For hogs in the 75 to 150 pound range the most economical ration should contain 12 per cent protein.

The finishing ration can contain as little as 10 to 11 per cent protein and still provide the highest return to the producer.

Commercial supplements normally supply the supplemental vitamins and minerals. If the protein level is cut to 10 or 11 per cent, the supplement may not have been tailored to fit the lower protein ration. In this case additional calcium phosphate and possibly trace minerals and vitamins may be needed.

A two-to-three week longer than normal period may be required to get the hogs to market under the suggested lower protein levels. These lower protein levels may also result in slightly fatter carcasses.

However, these reduced protein levels for the growing finishing period may result in savings of up to $1.75 per hundred-weight.

Eye Injuries Set U.S. Safety First Program

Hoosier farmers can reduce and possibly eliminate their share of the 7,500 farm work-related eye injuries that occur each year in the United States by putting eye safety first.

In a statement issued for National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, Dr. Donald W. Conner Jr. of Terre Haute, president of the Indiana Optometric Association, pointed out that good eye safety equipment is available to protect a farmer's vision from needless permanent or temporary damage.

Modern farming, he added, has come a long way from horse-and-plow days and today's farmer needs sophisticated safety equipment to protect his eyes from today's environment.

Various types of lenses and frames are used in eye safety. The choice depends on the job hazards involved such as handling agricultural chemicals, operating machinery, welding, repairing buildings, tree trimming, blasting or performing any other job with danger of flying pieces or particles.

While U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulations require that most eyeglass lenses be impact-resistant, Dr. Conner stressed that heat- and chemically-treated glass lenses meeting industrial standards should be considered essential for many jobs.

If there is any question about what type of protection should be used, farmers should seek the advice of vision care specialists.

Chemical To Control Birds

A new chemical for use in blackbird control in field corn may save farmers huge economic losses. And, it has the approval of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Developed by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service scientists, Avitrol not only helps protect crop damage but also acts to prevent undue harm to other wildlife.

Although toxic, the chemical's primary value is its ability to cause erratic flying and calling behavior in birds, says Fred R. Courtsal, state supervisor U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Purdue University.

This erratic behavior frightens other birds away and most of the flock leave the field unharmed, he explains.

Avitrol also has other advantages over control methods previously used. Explosive scaring devices are time-consuming and difficult to maintain; shotgun patrols are expensive and toxicants, such as strychnine, can kill large numbers of desirable birds.

Field tests, on the other hand, have shown that Avitrol has little effect on pheasants or quail.

Aerial application of Avitrol in the field involves

Sealed Bids To Be Accepted On Storage Bins

The Commodity Credit Corporation will offer for sale 16 grain storage structures by sealed bid, reports Newell S. Timmons, Chairman of the Indiana State ASC Committee.

Structures are located in Parke County. The sealed bids will be opened in the State ASCS Office, 5610 Crawfordville Road, Suite 1600, Indianapolis, on July 27 at 10 a.m.

Anyone desiring to inspect these structures may make arrangements to do so by consulting John R. Coffin at the Parke County ASCS Office in Rockville.

Timmons mentioned that all County ASCS Offices in the State have complete information on these sales.

U.S.D.A. Revises Regulations For Milk Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) revised its regulations for the Special Milk Program for Children.

One change makes this Program available only to schools which provide no food service to attending children. Milk is served as a basic component in all meals which are served in schools which do have lunch and breakfast programs.

Another change sets a uniform rate of reimbursement for all participating schools. The maximum rate of reimbursement is three cents a half pint, and schools must use these payments to reduce the price of milk to children.

These changes are designed to adjust program expenditures to the level of $25 million that is provided by P. L. 93-52--the Continuing Resolution under which the program is operating in the fiscal year 1974.

Mink Pelts Drop By 22% In '72

Indiana mink ranchers produced 32,000 pelts in 1972, a drop of 22 per cent from the 1971 total, report state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University. The number of ranchers reporting production last year in Indiana dropped from 22 to 17.

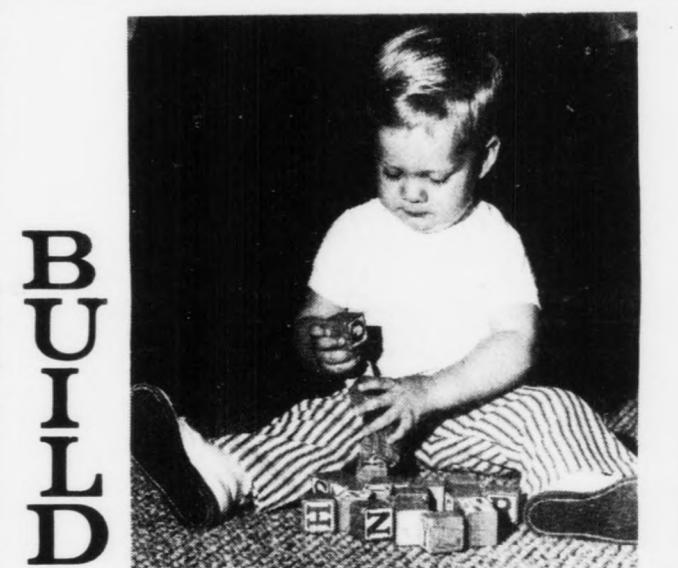

Stout Released

A new short, stiff-strawed early oat variety--Stout-- has been released by Purdue University's agricultural experiment station and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Because of its "unique short straw and lodging resistance," the new variety is adapted especially for growing on highly productive oat land in Indiana, say Stout's breeders.

House Passes Presidential War Commitment Slice

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has ignored a veto threat by President Nixon and approved a bill that would require presidents to halt within four months any war commitments they make unless Congress grants approval.

The bill was passed 244 to 170 after Nixon served notice by telegram that "I am unalterably opposed to and must veto any bill containing the dangerous and unconstitutional restrictions" in it.

The Senate could approve its own war powers bill Friday, setting the stage for an early showdown between Nixon and Congress.

Nixon's telegram was read to the House by Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, who objected to the bill saying it would let Congress force a war halt in 120 days by "twiddling our thumbs" and doing nothing.

"If we don't want a conflict continued the Congress should have the courage and the guts to stand up and vote against it," Ford said.

The bill also came under fire from the House's most outspoken war critics, who contended it would give presidents authority to wage war on their own for 120 days.

"I think there are enough loopholes in this bill to fly sorties of B52s through," said Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y.

Nixon specifically cited the bill's two major features as the "dangerous and constitutional restraints" he said he would have to veto.

The first would require presidents to pull back any U.S. combat force commitments or force enlargements they made on their own in 120 days, unless Congress approved the commitments by then.

The second provides that Congress can order the war action halted any time during the 120 days with a House-Senate concurrent resolution that presidents could not veto.

But Nixon said in the telegram he would welcome, and urged, Congress to work out a bill to assure it "its proper role in national decisions of war and peace."

Although the President did not specify what he would accept, Ford told the House he believed the President would be sympathetic to a substitute bill proposed by Rep. David W. Dennis, R-Ind.

But the House rejected Dennis' bill 250 to 166.

It would have required Congress to approve or disapprove a president's war action within 90 days and it did not have the provision enabling Congress to halt a war with a resolution a president could not veto.

The House also rejected three proposals by opponents who contended the bill would, in effect, authorize the President to conduct war operations on his own for 120 days.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Read Gordon's questions. For coeds don't like to be kissed through a screen door! Nor have their escort's kisses strained through a "droopy drawers" type of mustache. Discuss this case about the psychology of masculine hirsute adornment!

CASE X-565: Gordon J., aged 21, is a medical student.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I notice that you seem to veto the long hippie hairdo."

"Plus the use of bushy mustaches that droop around the corners of the mouth."

"Yet you wear a mustache yourself!"

"So why did you start such a hirsute facial adornment?"

"And how do you defend yours in contrast to the drooping sort now popular with many college boys?"

When I started teaching psychology at Northwestern University, I was only 21 years old.

Many of my students were at least 20.

In order to add an appearance of more maturity, I started my mustache.

But mine differs greatly from the "droopy drawers" variety typical of modern hippies.

First, my mustache was neatly cropped and made a straight line across my upper lip.

This straight-line trim offsets the usual downward droop of the corners of a man's mouth. It thus intimates more snap and executive ability.

British Generals adopted it, instead of the bushy handlebars and "droopy drawers" mustaches.

Furthermore, my mustache was kept clipped so it never came closer than a quarter of an inch to my upper lip.

And this is vitally important for any man who is dealing with people in a speaking role, whether as a salesman, teacher or public speaker.

For even if we are not deaf, of people to understand our spoken words.

That's doubly crucial regarding television performers!

For if they wear a bushy mustache that hangs over their mouth and thus "strains their voice," the video audience finds it more difficult to understand their remarks.

Second, a bushy mustache, as well as a heavy beard and a feminine hairdo that hangs down to a man's shoulders in unkempt style, also suggest germs, dirty soap stains and contamination when such hairs drop into the food platters at the dinner table.

A generation ago, many old farmers also wore beards, upon which they drooled tobacco juice and into which they dribbled their soup.

That connotation still makes modern hirsute waiters at restaurants (or straggly long-haired waitresses).

Fastidious patrons thus will shun such eating places!

Third, a scrawny narrow band of hair on a college man's upper lip, suggests immaturity or juvenility, instead of masculine dominance, so it vaguely rebuffs a woman's romantic thrills.

"Dr. Crane," a coed recently protested, "I don't want a callow youth to kiss me."

"A boy thus looks older when smoothly shaven than if he vainly sprouts only a few feeble hairs on his upper lip!"

"But I don't like to be kissed through a bushy 'screen door,' either!"
